

Unit4 /The simple futuer(prediction) opinion or intuition, and not on present evidence. ... Such predictions are often introduced by I think / I don't think : I don't think he'll come tonight. I predict that Congress will pass an anti-piracy law soon

Form:

Sub + will+v (base) +C.

Examples:

1. I don't think he 'll come tonight.
2. I predict that Congress will pass an anti-piracy law soon.
3. If you ask him, he 'll probably give you a lift.

Negative form :

Sub + will not + v(base) +C.

Remember : will not= won't.

Examples:

- 1.It won't be rainy tomorrow.
2. They will not come next week.
- 3.I hope you won't leave me.
- 4.I think she won't pay with cash.

FUTURE:
WILL/WON'T

USE

We use WILL-WON'T to make future predictions

TIME EXPRESSIONS

tomorrow, soon, next year, later, when I am older..., in 20 years...

iSLCollective.com

The future simple, in its interrogative form, has this structure:

Will + subject + verb + ...?

- Will you bring your student card?
- Will she wear her dress?
- Will you work tonight?
- Will they leave a tip?
- What will I say to him?
- What will you wear tonight?
 - Where will we sit?
- When will we finish these cheques?

Will they watch tv in the morning?

Yes, they will. They will watch tv in the morning

simple form

Will they work in the morning?

No, they won't. They won't work in the morning.

