

2 3

Welcome back to school 2022 2023

STAY SAFE

Frequently wash
your hands

Wear masks

Lesson 5

It's better to give than receive.

Lessons 5–6 It's better to give than receive

Speaking

- 1 Work in pairs.
 - Tell each other about the times in the year when you give and receive gifts.
 - What do you think this saying means?
It's better to give than receive.

Learning objectives:

01

Speaking

To make requests and offers, ask permission to do something, ask for and give advice in a natural way using modal verbs.

02

Writing

To raise learners' awareness of intonation patterns used in To write short pieces of advice using modal language of greeting and ending conversations informally and formally.

03

Reading

Reading: To read for detail and to discern subtle differences in meaning between phrases.

Reading

2 Read the text quickly and choose the best title.

- a Brothers and sisters
- b Family and food
- c The gift of giving

“Hello” 안녕

My name is Khalid Hakini. I am twelve and I live in Abu Dhabi. I have two brothers and two sisters.

One of the most important dates for my family is Eid al-Fitr, at the end of Ramadan. On this day we have a special meal and my brothers and sisters and I wear new clothes. We also visit our relatives and friends. Everyone is happy and adults give us sweets or money. This year, for Eid al-Fitr, I received delicious sweets and 25 dirhams.

Eid al-Adha is another important celebration. This year's celebration was very special because some relatives came to visit us from Dubai. It was really exciting to meet our cousins, aunts and uncles. We had a meal together and we shared some of it with the poor. I collected about 20 dirhams from my relatives, but the most valuable thing was celebrating and sharing with my family and the needy.

During Haq al-Lailah, my siblings and I got lots of sweets. We all visited our neighbours, except my youngest brother Ali because he was sick. Ali felt sad about this, but the rest of us shared our sweets with him. I also received six dirhams. I will buy my mum a gift with the money. I love giving gifts, it makes me very happy.

” = 감 이다

3 Read the text again and answer the questions.

- 1 What do all the celebrations described by Khalid have in common?
- 2 What was different about this year's Eid al-Adha at Khalid's house?
- 3 Why did Khalid share his sweets with Ali on Haq al-Lailah?
- 4 How much money did Khalid receive in total?

감사합니다

1-Each celebration involves giving/receiving gifts, eating special food and wearing new clothes.

2-Some relatives came to Khalid's house from Dubai.

3-Because Ali was sick and couldn't go visiting the neighbours.

1 Unscramble the letters to spell six words, then match the words to their definitions.

1 enyed

1 needy

2 dsa

2 sad

3 nblissgi

3 siblings

4 svarlieet

4 relatives

5 tigf

5 gift

6 veeirc

6 receive

a a word which means the opposite of happy

b a word which means the opposite of give

c a word that means the people in your family

d another word for a present

e another way to say brothers and sisters

f another word for poor

* of fluency reached after the practice of this workshop

Lesson 6

Learning objectives:

01

Reading

To read for detail and to discern subtle differences in meaning between phrases.

02

Writing

To write short pieces of advice using modal verbs.

03

Speaking

To make requests and offers, ask permission to do something, ask for and give advice in a natural way using modal verbs.

Key vocabulary:

Host guest soles of feet left right hungry thirsty borrow ink polite rude floor
Offer remove

Speaking

5 Work in pairs. Decide if you agree with these statements.

When you are a guest in the UAE:

- 1 It is important to always accept an invitation to someone's house. Refusing an invitation is rude.
- 2 It is not important to remove your shoes when you enter someone's home.
- 3 You can wear what you want to dinner at someone's house.
- 4 It's important not to offer to shake hands, unless your host offers their hand first.
- 5 Remember to accept food and drink, and to eat with your left hand.
- 6 If you are sitting on the floor, don't show the soles of your feet to anyone.

1 It's better to accept, as Emirati put such an emphasis on hospitality, but if you must refuse, you have to give a very specific excuse.

2 Incorrect. It is important.

3 Yes, to a point, but arms and legs should be covered – clothing should be modest.

4 True, particularly in the case of a man greeting a woman.

5 Incorrect. It's important to eat and drink with the right hand.

6 True. Showing the soles of the feet to other people is an insult.

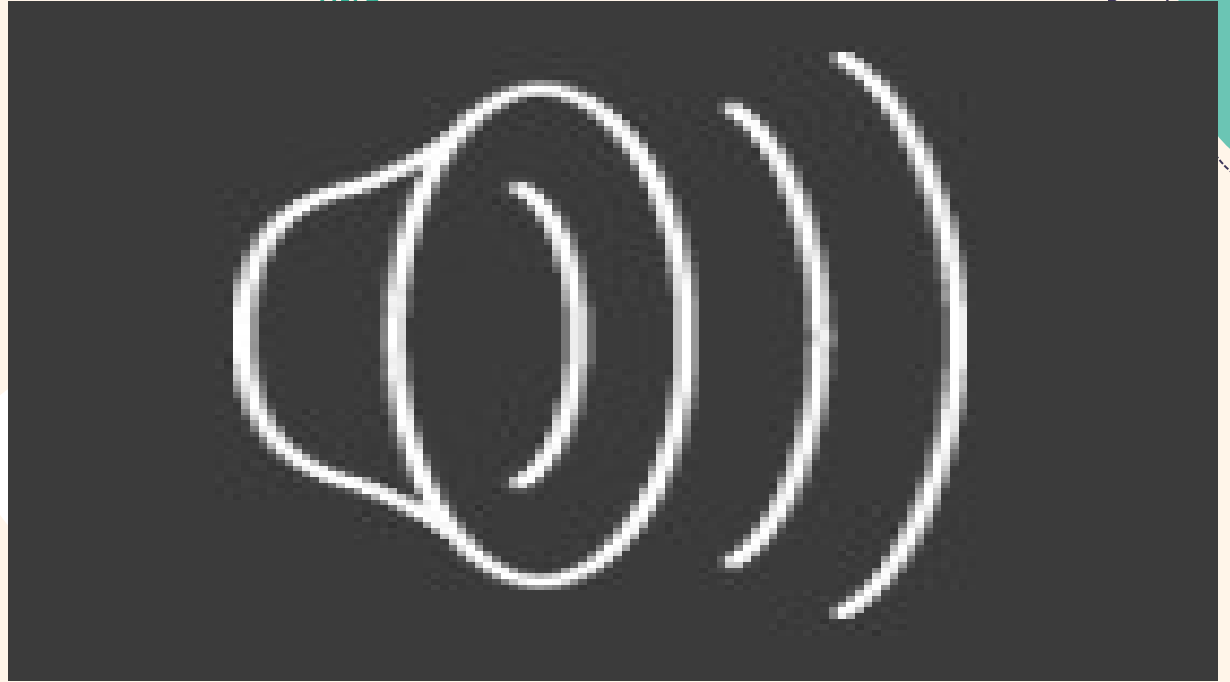

A Video

Goodbye = 안녕

Excuse me = 실례합니

Plenary

[https://quizizz.com/admin/quiz/62a558145ab2fc001d4d1ffe?
source=quiz_share](https://quizizz.com/admin/quiz/62a558145ab2fc001d4d1ffe?source=quiz_share)

Evaluate your learning for today in LMS(Poll):

LMS

I am confused. Mercury is the closest planet to the Sun and the smallest one

I am already there

I got it

Self-Evaluation

Thank Does anyone have any questions? s!

